Are lithium-ion battery energy storage systems causing tensions in southern Brooklyn?

Tensions are sparking in southern Brooklyn as residents learn of lithium-ion battery energy storage systems moving into vacant storefronts and lots along industrial corridors, many just steps from residential homes.

Who makes lithium ion batteries?

The global lithium-ion battery industry is dominated by China. Chinese companies supply 80 percent of the world's battery cells and account for nearly 60 percent of the EV battery market. Even some US companies that produce batteries rely on lithium-ion cell components produced by Chinese manufacturers.

Why did Carmel ban lithium battery storage?

The town of Carmel in Putnam voted last October to ban lithium battery storage systems. In an ironic twist, the Indian Point nuclear plant in Buchanan, Westchester County closed in 2020 because of public health and safety concerns and residents in the same area are now opposing the battery storage plant as a dangerous alternative.

Why is a blaze threatening California's lithium-ion battery storage facilities?

The pushback comes after a blaze last month that erupted at one of the world's largest lithium-ion battery storage facilities in Monterey County, California, forcing the evacuation of 1,500 residents. Scientists subsequently reported high concentrations of heavy metals in soil in the vicinity.

Will lithium batteries be allowed in a move?

Lithium batteries won't be allowed in any household goods going into long-term storage -- also known as "non-temporary storage" -- as part of a move, TRANSCOM confirmed in an email. And lithium batteries moving as part of household goods shipments going between homes will have to fall below certain size thresholds.

Are lithium batteries banned?

While most batteries have broadly been banned from household goods shipments and storage, exceptions for lithium batteries hadn't been specified. In 2022, U.S. Transportation Command (TRANSCOM) issued new guidance to the military services, which began advising troops of the change.
